Dr. Judith Hauptman, Associate Professor of Talmud at the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, will be the Scholar-In-Residence at the Shabbaton, Friday, January 13 - Saturday, January 14 at Park Avenue Synagogue.

Dr. Hauptman will deliver the Dorothy Tager Lectures during the Shabbaton on "Talmud: THE Guide to Successful Family Relationships". Dr. Hauptman has served as a Visiting Instructor of Talmud at Hebrew Union College and has been a guest lecturer at the 92nd St. Y and CCNY. She has written and had published numerous scholarly articles, serves on the Commission on Equality for Women of the American Jewish Congress and is a member of the Editorial Committee of the Jewish Publication Society.

All About Tu B'shevat

Tu B'shevat, the New Year for the Trees, begins at sundown, Friday, January 20 and concludes at sundown, Saturday, January 21.

The rabbis of the Talmud speak of the New Year for the Trees. No special liturgy or festivity is described for the day, but it is customary to eat fruits that grow in Israel: figs, dates, carobs, etc. In some Ashkenazic communities, a custom arose to eat fifteen types of fruit on Tu B'shevat with special effort made to obtain fruits of Israel, especially the seven types of fruit and grain that, in the Torah, represent the fertility of the land of Israel.

In Israel, the ancient practice of planting trees on Tu B'shevat has been revived and school children and others do so on Tu B'shevat. In our Religious School, the children plant trees in Israel through the Jewish National Fund. Also in our school this year the first anniversary celebration of the founding of the Nitzanim Service for children ages 4 to 7 will take place on Tu B'shevat. [See story on page 2]

The Influence of Maimonides

The great rabbi, philosopher and doctor Moses Maimonides was certainly a giant personality of Jewish history. He lived from 1135 to 1204 and continues to have a profound influence on Judaism.

Today his picture appears on stamps of Caribbean Island states and he is revered in Jewish, Christian and Muslim circles. How strange it is that this man of deep understanding and compassion should be particularly hailed by those groups in Judaism noted for their intolerance and lack of understanding.

In the summer of 1978 the British Museum presented an exhibit of manuscripts and printed books to commemorate the eighth centenary of the completion of his magnum opus, the Mishneh Torah, The Code of Jewish Law. I was in London at that time and was able to visit this rare exhibit. Of particular interest to me were his medical achievements about which I knew little.

In 1174 Saladin had succeeded the last Fatimid caliph and his Vizier al-Fadl appointed Maimonides his own personal physician and later court physician to Saladin and to his two successors. In this capacity Moses, it is said, treated Richard the Lion Hearted who fell ill while on a crusade, declining Richard's grateful offer of the post of court physician in London. On finishing his daily court visit, he would snatch some refreshment and treat the patients, rich and poor, who besieged his house, often until after nightfall. Yet he also found time to teach disciples and to write the Moreh Nebukhim, The Guide for the Perplexed, the greatest work of medieval Jewish philosophy. This work was translated into Hebrew from the original Arabic during Moses' lifetime and into Latin soon after, thus influencing the Christian schoolmen.

Begun in 1185 and finished in 1190, the third magnum opus was not yet the end of Maimonides' literary career. His fame as a doctor was only beginning. His treatise on Poisons and Antidotes, on Asthma, on Sexual Hygiene, on Haemorrhoids and numerous letters giving advice and prescriptions to inquirers are preserved and were Begun as a monthly event for 4 - 7 year olds, the Nitzanim Service rapidly became a twice a month event and then, by popular demand, a once a week event.

Led by Mychal Springer and Liz Leiman, the Nitzanim Service provides parents and their young children the opportunity to sing, dance and pray together in the spirit of the words of the Sh'ma:

"You shall review the laws and you shall discuss them with your children when you are at home and when you are traveling, when you are resting and when you are active. . ."

On Saturday morning, January 21 not only will there be a Nitzanim service, but also a Tu Bishevat Seder with Israeli fruits, wine and grape juice.

New Courses Offered In Sherr Institute of Adult Jewish Studies

Beginning in January the Sherr Institute of Adult Jewish Studies offers courses on a variety of Jewish subjects.

For the parents of pre-teens and teens, as well as for those who are puzzled by the subliminal impact of the media on the ethical issues of our day, Dr. Livia Straus is giving a course, "Ethics Through The Media" which will examine how the media mirrors and influences our society. The course begins on Wednesday, January 4 at 8 p.m. and continues weekly through February 15.

The ever-popular course, "Bar and Bat Mitzvah Primer" will be given again this year on three Monday evenings and one Saturday morning, beginning Monday, January 9 at 8 p.m. Specifically designed for parents of children who will become Bar/Bat Mitzvah during this liturgical year, this course is taught by the clergy and is an examination of the meaning of Bar/Bat Mitzvah and the Shabbat morning service.

Dr. Neil Gillman returns to the Sherr Institute to teach two new courses this winter. For five Wednesday evenings beginning January 18 at 8 p.m., Dr. Gillman will teach a class on "Who Wrote The Bible?", using as text the book of that name by Robert Elliott Friedman. Beginning on Wednesday, February 22 at 8 p.m. and continuing for five additional weekly classes, Dr. Gillman will look closely at the recently published statement of principles of Conservative Judaism, Emet Ve-Emunah.

On Tuesday, February 7 at 8 p.m., Cantor David Lefkowitz will analyze the different musical and cultural traditions which influenced the music composed for the Musaf Kedushah prayer.

Rabbi David Lincoln will conduct a class for three morning sessions from 10:30 - 11:45 a.m. on "What Judaism Says", an examination of what answers the Jewish tradition holds for modern dilemmas. He also conducts a class every Tuesday morning from 8:30 - 9:30 a.m. entitled "Torah & Life" which examines the enduring insights of the sages into the human condition.

Mrs. Vivian Finkel continues to teach the Hebrew language on all levels, morning, afternoon and evening. And, remember, study opportunities are available at the morning and evening minyanim and on Saturday afternoons between the Minhah service and the Maariv service.

The Book Discussion Group will meet in the Rothschild Library on Monday, January 23 and February 13 at 8 p.m. Call the discussion leader Pat Davidson, 289-7771, for the title of the books to be discussed.

Consult the Sherr Institute catalog for more information. If you wish another copy of the catalog for yourself or for a friend, call the Synagogue Office, 369-2600, and request a copy by mailed to you.

Make time to study in the Sherr Institute this winter. You will enjoy the experience.

A Family "Situation"

In every family there are times when "situations" can become "problems" if not addressed openly and frankly. This is also true in our extended family, Park Avenue Synagogue.

Over the years, the congregation has enjoyed in larger and larger numbers the celebration of holiday meals together. These meals are deliciously catered by our exclusive caterer, Victor Mayer & Sons, Inc., and are enjoyed by all who attend. This means, however, that once a total number of attendees has been given to the caterer by the office, the Synagogue is responsible for paying the caterer for the number of meals ordered and prepared by him for the event.

As a courtesy to our members, the Synagogue Office takes reservations over the telephone and then bills members for the amount of their reservation.

Sadly, more and more of these telephone reservations are not used for one reason or another. However, the Synagogue is obligated to pay the caterer for all the meals that were ordered. This has resulted in a loss to the Synagogue of thousands of dollars a year.

Now that you know the "situation," please help us. Come to all the holiday festivities. Eat in the Sukkah, at the Shabbaton, at the Friday night Shabbat dinners, at the Passover sedarim because we all know that sharing the holidays with family brings happiness to the soul. BUT make your reservations by the response date mentioned on every invitation you receive. Cancellations are accepted up to 3 days prior to the event. If you are unable to attend at the last minute, please understand our position (that we must pay the caterer for the number of dinners we ordered 3 days prior to the event) and do the right thing by paying for your reservations, as we must.

Thank you.

The Congregation is invited to attend a Martin Luther King, Jr. Memorial Program

Wednesday, January 11, 1989 at 5 p.m.

Guest Speaker: Dr. Archie Buffkins
Director, Producer of Inter-Cultural Affairs, Kennedy Center, Washington, D.C.

Dr. Buffkins, the advisor to President Reagan on Black-Jewish Relations, will speak on the history of Black-Jewish Relations and the current situation between the two groups.

Added Feature To Congregational Shabbat Dinner During January and February

This winter those attending the monthly congregational Shabbat dinners will have an added treat: two articulate and distinguished speakers sharing their areas of expertise.

In January, at the dinner which takes place on Friday, January 13 as part of the Shabbaton, Dr. Judith Hauptman, Associate Professor of Talmud at the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, will deliver the first of two Dorothy Tager Lectures as part of the annual Shabbaton. [See story on page 1]

In February, the dinner will take place on Friday, February 10 with the Women's Evening Group acting as co-hosts with the Shabbat Dinner Committee. WEG has invited Ruth Gavision, Chaim Cohen Professor of Human Rights at the Hebrew University School of Law, to speak on "Civil Rights in Israel: Challenges and Responses."

As is customary, a reservation card will be mailed to the congregation for both these dinners. Respond early as it is expected that both these dinners will sell out quickly. Cost per person is $20.

Religious School To Add Special Class Next Fall

Unfortunately, many times in our eagerness to educate youngsters to become members of the Jewish community, we neglect to take into account the needs of "special" children who, for many reasons, cannot be "main-streamed" into conventional classrooms.

Recognizing that this need exists, a class for children with special needs will be instituted next September in the Mazer School of Religious Studies at Park Avenue Synagogue.

Please contact Dr. Livia Straus in the School Office, 369-2600, if you would like more information about this class and/or if you would like your child to be included.
